Officials urge residents to fill out Census forms

While April Fool's Day is a traditional day to play jokes and pranks on family and friends, officials in Crawford County say it would be foolish not to fill out the 2010 Census forms to secure a brighter future for the area.

Although letters and Census forms have already been sent to households in Crawford County, the officially designated Census Day is Thursday, April 1, 2010.

The census is a count of everyone residing in the United States and all U.S. residents – both citizens and non-citizens – must be counted.

Every year, the federal government allocates more than $400 billion to states and communities based, in part, on census data. 2A

Spring sports teams greeted by good weather

The spring sports season is almost here, and the recent warm weather has allowed Grayling High School's teams to get outside right away for practices.

"We've gotten super lucky with the weather," said GHS Athletic Director Tim Sanchez. "The weather has really worked out in our favor."

Keri Brock, who's in her sixth season as head coach of the GHS varsity softball squad, was pleased to be outside on March 17 – the third day of official practices.

"It's crazy," Coach Brock said. "It's great. Usually we're not outside until the first scrimmage. This hasn't happened since I've been here." 12A

Soccer team looks to improve on last year's progress

Grayling High School's varsity girls soccer squad, a team that had its most successful season in recent years during the 2009 spring campaign, is looking to build on last year's progress with a group that includes – according to Coach Craig Cobb – "a good mix of experience and about five that are new to the varsity."

The team, as of last week, had 20 players overall (three freshmen, five sophomores, 11 juniors, and one senior).

With the decent weather last week, field conditions and temperatures allowed for outdoor practices. The soccer team started its official practices on Monday, March 15. 13A

City council member resigns

A Grayling City Council member, who gave information to authorities, which led to the arrest of the city manager, submitted her letter of resignation to the Grayling City Council last week.

Grayling City Clerk Michele Moshier said Dee Maybury submitted her resignation to the Grayling City Council – via e-mail – on Tuesday, March 16. Maybury said the resignation was effective immediately.

Maybury submitted a copy of her resignation to the Crawford County Avalanche.

Maybury has moved and is now living in Florida. In an interview with the Avalanche, Maybury stressed that she is taking care of family business, but said she could not elaborate on the nature of that business. She added that her resignation has nothing to do with the arrest of Grayling City Manager David Thayer.

In her resignation to the Grayling City Council, Maybury said: "As you are aware, I had to leave town to take care of some personal business, and at this point, I am unsure when I will be able to return to town, if at all."

"I know that this is probably the worse possible time that there could be for me to

ORVs: All county roads to be open

Ordinance change to go into effect 50 days after April 1

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

After a marathon of debate and discussion last week, the Crawford County Board of Commissioners voted to open up all county roads to ORV and ATV travel 365 days a year, 24 hours a day and seven days a week.

The change will go into effect 50 days after a public notice is published in the Crawford County Avalanche on Thursday, April 1, said Crawford County Administrator Paul Compo.

Last year, the Crawford County Board of Commissioners adopted an ordinance that allowed ORV operators to travel on the shoulders of some county roads. The Crawford County Road Commission and the townships chose to close ORV traffic on some roads because of safety and environmental concerns. An ORV is not allowed to operate on the road surface, shoulder or right of way on any state or federal road in the county.

In January, the Crawford County Road Commission Board passed a resolution giving the decision on what roads should be opened or closed to the City of Grayling, the townships and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment (MDNR & E).

The road commission has the authority to close up to 30 percent of the total linear miles of roads in Crawford County to address safety issues and environmental concerns. But the road commission board believes that the use of ORVs under the county ordinance is in the best economic interest of Crawford County.

Crawford County Commissioner Rick Anderson, who has been an advocate of connecting trails in the county and allowing county-to-county ORV travel, said the board made mistakes by not allowing ORV travel year-round on all county roads.

"They're not out there with these high-performance deals that tear up the trails," Anderson said. "They're out there to see wildlife. They're out there to see tracts of land that they wouldn't be able to see without being able to get off of the main arteries."

The initial county ORV ordinance prohibited ORV travel between Nov. 15 and March 31, in an effort to avoid conflicts

Officials urge Crawford County residents to fill out Census forms

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

While April Fool's Day is a traditional day to play jokes and pranks on family and friends, officials in Crawford County say it would be foolish not to fill out the 2010 Census forms to secure a brighter future for the area.

Although letters and Census forms have already been sent to households in Crawford County, the officially designated Census Day is Thursday, April 1, 2010.

The census is a count of everyone residing in the United States and all U.S. residents - both citizens and non-citizens - must be counted.

Every year, the federal government allocates more than $400 billion to states and communities based, in part, on census data.

Grayling City Treasurer Terry McGregor said it is paramount for the financial stability for all Crawford County municipalities to have the Census forms filled out and returned due to the economic depression in Michigan and the nation.

"We want people to fill them out and understand it's important for our future," McGregor said. "In these current economic times, you don't want to look over any revenues."

Census data is also used to determine locations for retail stores, schools, hospitals, new housing development and other community facilities.

Crawford County Administrator Paul Compo said that federally funded programs funneled through the state are based on population so having an accurate Census count is crucial.

"From a local governmental standpoint, it's critical to fill out their Census forms so we can get those dollars into the community," Compo said.

The 2010 Census aptly contains 10 questions, and the questionnaire takes about 10 minutes to complete. Households are asked to provide key demographic information, including whether a housing unit is rented or owned, the address of the residence, and the names, gender, ages and races of others living in the household.

By law, the Census Bureau cannot share an individual's responses with anyone, including other federal agencies and law enforcement agencies.

"By participating in the 2010 Census we will be providing a footprint to future generations that will help them understand the world that we live in today," according to a statement from Ancestry.com.

More detailed socioeconomic information will be collected annually from a small percentage of the population through the American Community Survey.

Bryan Lydick, chief business development officer for Mercy Hospital Grayling, said demographic information allows the hospital to develop building, equipment and staff plans for the future.

"It gives up good snapshot of our area so can plan for the future and offer the services our community needs," Lydick said.

The U.S. Constitution requires a national census once every 10 years to count the population and determine the number of seats each state will have in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Bill Ballenger, editor and publisher of the Inside Michigan Politics newsletter, said Michigan will go from having 15 Congressional seats to 14 because of the loss in the state's population. Since redistricting starts in the Upper Peninsula, with the First Congressional District Seat currently held by Rep. Bart Stupak, D-Menominee, redistricting with have an impact on Crawford County.

"Every reapportionment of Michigan starts in the U.P., because we can't annex part Wisconsin to help us," Ballenger said.

Ballenger noted that the First Congressional District has the largest landmass east of the Mississippi River. The district spread down to the Bay City area when it was redrawn in 2001. It will likely include more area in northwest Michigan and the middle of the state when district lines are defined next year.

As far as the State Senate and House of Representative seats that serve Crawford County, Ballenger said people will have to wait until voters have their say at the polls in November before any predictions can be made. Voters will select a new governor, and several senate and house seats. The outcome of those elections will determine who controls the redistricting plans in 2011. And no matter which political party prevails, Ballenger said the districts are always challenged and decided by the Michigan Supreme Court. Although the justices do not run representing a political party, Ballenger noted that they are nominated and appointed by politicians.

"That's one of the reasons that this year's election is so important," Ballenger said.

If anyone needs help filling out their questionnaire, there will be a Census worker available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays at the AuSable River Nature Center (the former Crawford County Library building) through April 15.

Help Center will benefit from Simply Give program

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Meijer's Simply Give

food pantry program will help put food on the shelves of the Crawford County Community Christian Help Center and on the tables of needy families.

For the fifth time in less than 18 months, Meijer is teaming up with its shoppers to help restock the shelves of approximately 190 local food pantries as part of the grocer's Simply Give food pantry donation program.

The two-month program, Meijer's fifth since starting the donation effort in November 2008, seeks to lend a hand to the increasing number of food pantries that struggle to keep up with the growing demand for their services. To date, the program has raised more than $1.2 million in food donations that have gone directly to local food banks and pantries. Each one of Meijer's 191 stores throughout the Midwest had identified a local organization to receive the grocery donation.

The latest Simply Give program began on Friday, March 19 and will run through Saturday, May 15. Two other Simply Give food drives are scheduled for the late summer and early fall of this year.

As in previous efforts, the program encourages shoppers to bring $10 Meijer Food Pantry Donation Cards made available at special displays throughout the store. The cards are also available at the Crawford County Community Christian Help Center or from members of its board of directors.

"To help make the program a success, cards have been made available for the Crawford County Community Christian Help Center to give to supporters, family members, friends, church and religious partners that work with the pantry to bring in donations," said Kurt Stall, a promotion team leader for the Simply Give program.

The donation cards are then converted into Meijer Gift cards at the stores and given to the local food pantry selected by the store. The $10 amount reflects a typical bag of groceries at Meijer.

As it has done in the past, Meijer is seeding the overall Simply Give program with $100,000 in grocery gift cards that will be divided equally amount all the participating food pantries.

"This program is a testament to the compassion our shoppers have toward their neighbors," said Hank Meijer, co-chairman and CEO of the Grand Rapids based retailer. "We're proud to team up with thousands of our customers who wanted to lend a helping hand to those less fortunate in their communities. This program is an example of our commitment to make a difference on a very local level."

Lake State Railway Inc. charged in court for April 2008 wildfire

by Dan Sanderson
 Staff Writer

A railroad company accused of operating an unsafe train engine that caused a huge wildfire in April 2008 was formally charged in Crawford County District Court last week.

Lake State Railway Inc. of Saginaw was arraigned on a charge of Fires-Willfully-Setting-Forests, a 10-year felony which carries a $10,000 fine, and Forests-Fires-Rule Violations, a 90-day misdemeanor, which carries 90 days in jail and a $500 fine. The arraignment was held on Tuesday, March 16.

Lake State Railway Inc. is accused of starting the April 24, 2008 wildfire near the City of Grayling and another fire in Arenac County by operating a train engine that threw burning embers from the exhaust system because it was not equipped with standard safety equipment called spark arresters.

The fire burned down 1,300 acres of forest, three homes and other buildings, located on Grayling Game Club property south of Grayling by Simpson Lake.

The fire resulted in an estimated $464,000 in timber damage, $370,000 in personal property damage and $100,000 in fire suppression costs.

Mike Morrissey, of Flint, who has a home on the Grayling Game Club property, was at the club last weekend for some coyote hunting. Morrissey was pleased that the train company was finally being charged and remained hopeful the game club would receive restitution to replace lost trees.

"I doubt anyone other than the insurance companies will see any money," Morrissey said.

Morrissey said he had to file a $20,000 insurance claim with his insurance company to make repairs to his home. Besides the loss of trees, which has resulted in seeing and hearing traffic which rolls along I-75, Morrissey said not much has changed at the game club.

"We still have a hunting club and we use it for multiple seasons," said Morrissey, who hunts, snowmobiles and rides ATVs.

Rob Kelly, of Plymouth, who has a home on the Grayling Game Club property, said it took him two years to make repairs to his home at the club. Kelly, however, said he was fortunate to have hardwood trees located by his home spared by firefighters.

"Looking off my deck, I've still got trees," Kelly said. "It makes you kind of sick when I see the other open space. It's like a desert out there. Hopefully, it will grow back over time."

Kelly said he was glad the railroad company is being forced to face justice for the wildfire.

"It's an unfortunate thing to happen when it was such a silly thing to do, running an engine without a spark arrester," Kelly said. "I have a feeling we're going to have to wait in line behind a bunch of other people."

All three homes located on the Grayling Club property were rebuilt. One person, who lost a home, moved out of state and a new game club member rebuilt on the property.

Kim Dawson, who rebuilt her family home on the property, said she was pleased that Department of Natural Resources and Environment officials determined the cause of the blaze.

"Whenever you determine the cause, hopefully you can prevent something like that from happening again," she said.

A preliminary exam, where Syed Ahmed, an assist Michigan Attorney General prosecuting the case will present evidence against the railroad company, is scheduled for Tuesday, May 11.

The state has already provided Lake State Railway with reports that several fires occurred off of track the company owns on April 17, 2008. Another fire, which spread and burnt over six acres of land, occurred on May 5, 2005. All fires were consistent and determined to be caused by Engine #2052 operated by Lake State Railway.

Thomas A. Connolly, a Flushing attorney representing Lake State Railway, said he had no comment on the case.

Bus cameras and radios purchased

by Dan Sanderson
 Staff Writer

All school busses for the Crawford AuSable School District will move into the digital age with funds left over from a bond issue approved four years ago.

The Crawford AuSable School Board, at its regular monthly meeting last week, agreed to purchase four digital radios with repeaters for its busses at a cost of $15,185.50.

Eight busses in the school district's fleet already have the digital radios. The change was needed because the Federal Communications Commission changed from processing analog radio signals to digital signals last year, said Crawford AuSable School District Superintendent Joe Powers.

In some outlying areas of the school district, busses experience "dead zones" where bus drivers could not contact the transportation garage.

"We can try do a patch for while, but it's really not going to be a long-term solution," Powers said of communication with busses in rural areas of the county.

In addition, digital cameras, at a cost of $15,548.80, will also be placed on the busses to replace the current video cameras.

Powers said the upgrade would provide a better picture and clarity of actions that take place on the bus. Powers said the district fields an occasional complaint for activity that takes place on the busses, which Brain Hulbert, the school district's transportation director, has to review.

"It's just for the safety of our students," Powers said.

The school district was allowed to purchase the busses, radios and cameras thanks to a school-funding proposal passed in May 2006, when voters overwhelmingly agreed to freeze their taxes at 4.2 mills through 2011.

The proposal allowed the district to borrow $1.9 million in bonds to pay for busses, energy conservation projects and school building improvements.

The funds were broken into two separate bond issues because of the cost of the busses and the life span of the busses, said Mike Dunkel, the Crawford AuSable School District Business Manager.

The school board approved the purchase of the last four busses made possible by the bond issue in February.

"We're ecstatic to be able fulfill out student's transportation needs," Powers said. "Many kids wouldn't be able to get to school without being bussed."

Finally, the school board approved a bid for 2007 Ford van through Feeny Ford, Mercury of Grayling at a cost of $13,105. The van will be used by teachers and school advisors to transport students to activities and events.

Gov. Granholm in middle of food fight

A SAYING among baseball managers goes something like this: Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose, and sometimes you pray for rain.

Michigan Gov. Jennifer Granholm issued a well-meaning official state proclamation declaring last Saturday as "Meatout Day" and encouraged all Michigan eaters to forego meat for a day and try a diet of fruit, vegetables and grains instead.

The ensuing uproar from organized Michigan farm groups was shocking.

Not so surprising was the accompanying chorus from Republicans in the State Senate, who make a ritual of opposing almost anything Gov. Granholm suggests. They did again, and in a rare sample of bipartisanship, three Democrats chimed in with the 22-vote solid Republican front.

On the day of the Senate vote, the pro-meat advocates threw a free barbecue on the Capitol lawn for state legislators.

The only possible positive coming out of the mess for the governor was to win a few points with vegetarians and vegans, who are not nearly as deeply organized as the meat-side of agriculture, nor with an equally loud voice.

She lost with both organized farmers and Republicans, who urged her to withdraw the proclamation. Instead, she issued an additional and conciliatory proclamation declaring the day as an all-inclusive "Agriculture Day" in Michigan.

In a nutshell, she should have prayed for rain.

* * *

MICHIGAN FARMING is a $71 billion a year industry in Michigan, among the three largest industries in the state and growing in significance.

Not counting milk and eggs, the meat supplying part of the industry – cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry and other animals – amounts to about $750 million a year.

Some farmers blamed "food elitists" and "animal rights groups" for foisting the proclamation upon the governor; some organized vegetarians admitted seeking a meatless day declaration, which in other states governors of both parties have issued without undue problems.

The Michigan Farm Bureau blasted the Granholm proclamation as "an unconscionable and insensitive slap in the face" to livestock farmers and meat-eating Michiganders.

That may be stretching it a bit, and it may reflect the mounting problems between farm organizations and the Granholm administration, such as proposed budget cuts for the state department of agriculture, and the governor's executive order which permits the governor and not the Michigan Agriculture Commission to appoint the department director. Some farm groups also fault the governor for not emphasizing enough the important role of farming in the Michigan economy.

* * *

GRAINS, FRUITS and vegetables – the core of meatless menus – also are produced in Michigan, and thus also are an important part of our $71 billion agriculture economy.

On an allied point, Jerry Schneble, director of a Detroit organization called Totally Vegetarian, wrote to The Detroit Free Press:

"I would point out that two-thirds of all Americans are either over weight or obese, and I can guarantee you they did not get that way by overeating fruits and vegetables."

That's probably true; but they did not get that way either simply by eating meat. Obesity and overweight depend on a lot of other things, such as genes, sugars, fats, lack of proper exercise, and many other elements of diet and lifestyle. Meat by itself generally will not cause weight problems; it depends on how it is prepared and what is eaten with it.

Vegetable proponents also have an important ally in mothers, and their orders/pleas to their children to "please eat your vegetables or else." Most mothers are not compelled to tell their children to "please eat your meat" ... unless it's liver.

* * *

THERE'S NOTHING inherently wrong with promoting a meatless day every once in a while.

During World War II, meatless days were a regular part of the home front war effort.

As for diet restrictions, many religions are rife with them.

As a Cradle Catholic, I was brought up with meatless Fridays year around as a token of atonement; the practice has been lightened considerably. During Lent, however, for the six weeks leading up to Easter, the ban on Friday meat is still in effect, which is why "Friday Fish Fries" are popular during Lent at many Catholic parishes.

In a personal later development, two granddaughters are dedicated vegetarians or vegans; I know there's a difference, but I'm uncertain of how big the difference is. Neither eats meat, and our family food-related gatherings always accommodate their dedication without particular problems or hassles.

* * *

IN A NUTSHELL, Gov. Granholm was not out of bounds at all to encourage a meatless observance, and it appears that politics motivated much of the negative outcry.

In retrospect, however, I expect the governor and any of her staff involved in the meatless proclamation probably feel like President George Bush and the White House staff felt – in retrospect, of course – about the much publicized event on the aircraft carrier shortly after Saddam Hussein was ousted in Iraq that declared proudly and very prematurely: Mission Accomplished.

To both of these government executives, governor and president, it must have seemed like a good idea at the time – but all in all, they should have prayed for rain.

Letters to the Editor

City needs to fix the sidewalks

To the editor:

The other day I noticed the work that has neared completion over at the courthouse/municipal building. They installed some new handicap parking spaces at the south end of the entranceway but they did not curb cut the sidewalk which leads to the main parking lot on the north end of the building.

I notified the city that this is a lawsuit waiting to happen, but I was given the brush off by the person I spoke to at the city offices.

I can't believe they overlooked this simple and inexpensive fix that is necessary to accommodate someone using a wheelchair, scooter, walker, etc.

It turns out, I was not the first person to point this obvious problem out to them too. One of their own employees noticed the problem, but they were given the brush off when they recommended the fix as well.

Another problem is the fact that all the handicap parking spaces in town have been moved to the outer perimeter of the business area instead of being located as close as possible to the center of the business area which the ADA regulations require.

I suppose if the designers were in a wheelchair they might be able to figure it out. Until then, I hope they learn a good lesson over these obvious mistakes.

Washington Notes

By Carl Levin, U.S. Senator (D-Michigan)

Winning the jobs fight, one battle after another

The industrialist John D. Rockefeller believed that "the world owes no man a living but that it owes every man an opportunity to make a living." Far too many Michiganders these days are being denied that opportunity, but Congress has taken some important steps to boost job creation and put people back to work.

President Obama recently signed the Hiring Incentives to Restore Employment Act, the first of what will be several job-creation measures Congress will take up. This legislation includes a number of important provisions that will help businesses begin hiring again.

Following up on that bill, the Senate and House have each approved the American Workers, State, and Business Relief Act, and I am optimistic we will soon reach agreement on a final version of that bill to send to the president. Later this spring, we plan to pass a third piece of legislation that will give businesses the greater access to credit they need to survive and grow.

No individual bill, by itself, will solve our jobs problem. Unfortunately, the depth of the crisis we face means solutions aren't simple or easy. We'll reduce unemployment with a series of small wins, not in one sweeping move, and these bills are important successes in that larger battle.

The bill the president signed in mid-March, for example, does a number of things to boost employment. It provides a tax credit to companies that add new workers, a credit that could make the difference between making new hires or holding back when companies analyze the costs and benefits of boosting their payrolls. It allows businesses to write off investments more quickly, saving them tax expenses and freeing up more money for payrolls.

The bill also includes funding for important highway programs, and it continues the Build America Bonds program, which Michigan schools and local governments have used to finance more than $1 billion in investments. These two programs will help provide important public infrastructure while keeping construction workers on the job.

When we send the American Workers, State, and Business Relief Act to the president, we will make additional progress.

Significantly for Michigan, this legislation will extend unemployment and COBRA health insurance benefits until the end of this year. We have passed a series of short-term extensions of these programs, but extensions of only a few weeks have left families worrying that their benefits will soon expire. This lifeline will help families keep food on the table and shelter overhead.

We will also extend a number of provisions giving tax relief to businesses, freeing up more resources they can use to retain or add workers. And we will continue offering expanded aid to state Medicaid programs. The economic crisis means more people are drawing Medicaid benefits, at the same time that states are facing tremendous budget pressure.

Michigan small businesses are struggling to get access to the credit they need. Even businesses with good credit records and plenty of customers often can't get the capital they have traditionally relied upon to operate. One of the big problems is that, just as the value of our houses have declined, so has the value of business property and equipment. That means businesses have less to offer as collateral when they apply for loans, sharply restricting their access to credit. If we tackle this problem in the coming weeks, we can make a big difference in businesses' ability to keep and add workers.

The fight to restore opportunity for every American to make a living will not be easy. The economic crisis hit us like a hurricane, and just like a hurricane, the cleanup will last longer than the storm. But working families need us to act, and act quickly. Each step we can take to restore jobs will be an important step in giving every American worker the opportunity they deserve.

Carl Levin is the senior U.S. senator from Michigan.

Chamber is looking for a few good chefs

The annual Men Who Cook event takes place this year on May 15 and the Grayling Chamber of Commerce is looking for a few local men to step up to the culinary challenge.

This year's 10th annual event will once again take place at the Camp Grayling Officers Club, and while this has always been a fun event it also happens to be something of a competition.

Once a chef signs up for the event he has the chance to not only take home the People's Choice Award but this year offers a new twist on the competition with the Mystery Judge's award. It's just a matter of impressing the attendees with the right dish.

Last year's chefs included Ron Gribb, Doug Ellis, Trey Ayers, Jim Burtch, Ernie

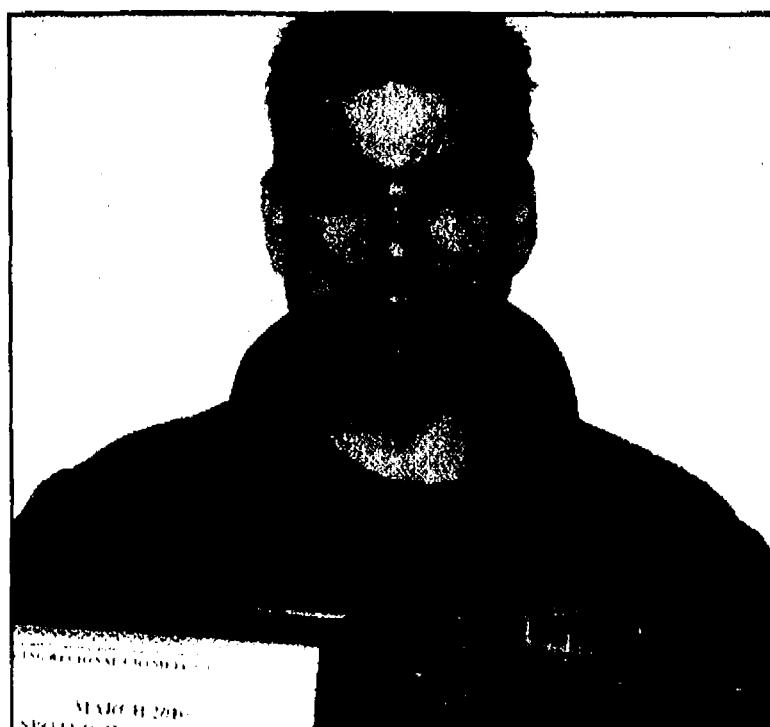

Dawson, Robert Rousselo, John Jones and Monte Burmeister. And although all men provided a delicious array of food, Mike Hultgren was the chef who took home the top honor for his Potato Soup with Lasso Ham complimented by a smoked sausage tray.

Chamber officials emphasized that potential chefs should not be intimidated by the cost of cooking for a large crowd as the chamber will once again assist the chefs with procuring food and covering costs.

For those who would rather judge than be judged, 200 tickets will go on sale April 15 at the Chamber office and various locations on Michigan Avenue.

To sign up as a chef call Traci at the Chamber office at 989-348-2921.

Jim's Well Drilling selected as spotlighted member for March

Jim's Well Drilling was selected as the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce Ambassador's Club Spotlight-A-Member Award recipient for March.

"This business was brought to life by my grandfather Jim Stearns in 1966. He designed and built his own drilling equipment in a small shop on Timber Trail off Staley Lake Road," said Glen Carlson.

"In 1974, my family moved here from Indiana and my father Hal Carlson took over the business. In 2001, the business was handed down to me," said Glen.

"Through our efforts, Jim's Well Drilling has been able to expand to keep up with the ever changing demands of the well drilling industry. We are proud to be able to stay a family business and provide quality customer service."

Jim's Well Drilling drill residential and commercial water wells from 4" to 10" in diameter; repair water wells, including the pumps and tanks; sell new and used pumps, tanks and other materials related to water supply systems.

One unique fact about Jim's Well Drilling is they are a third generation family owned and operated business. They have been in business for over 45 years serving Crawford County and the surrounding counties and have been a supportive member of the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce since 1994.

Pictionary Olympics set for Friday, April 16

The 23rd annual Pictionary Olympics presented by the Grayling Promotional Association will be Friday, April 16. Teams from area businesses and service clubs as well as groups of four individuals compete for the coveted first place trophy.

In 2009, the champion was the J.Dap team after a special run-off with North Central Area Credit union to break a tie.

There are many teams that return every year. Past winners are always attempting to regain the first place honors, which makes it a very competitive evening.

The game is played with one team member attempting to get the rest of the team to guess a word based on their "pictures" describing that word. There is a time limit of one minute with an additional thirty second penalty for going over the time allotted.

For years, Judges Monte Burmeister and Janet Allen have presided over the event to ensure all of the rules are followed. Last year on the first and third rounds, the Riverland team guessed the word in two seconds ... a virtual record.

Snack food and a cash bar will be available. Admission is $2 for non-team members. All proceeds from this event go towards the sponsored projects, events and donations to the community of the Grayling Promotional Association.

The Bible Speaks

Religious Rule Dangerous

The British Empire was once governed by the divine right of kings, Samuel Rutherford challenged that form of government with the divine right of law. Rutherford's book, Lex, Rex (1644) opened with this challenge: "For the lawfulness of resistance in the matter of the king's unjust invasion of life and religion, we offer these arguments." Rutherford used God's supreme law, the Bible to define the principles of government by law. The equality of all people under law has been replacing the rule of kings ever since. Our own Declaration of Independence assumed the same divine right of law defended in Lex, Rex.

The moral roots of our original legal system relied heavily upon Christian influence from England. English law, as represented in William Blackstone's commentaries, was based directly upon Bible truth. Blackstone (1723-80) is credited with laying the foundation of modern English law and profoundly influencing the legal systems of the United States and other countries. His Commentaries on the Laws of England, published in four volumes between 1765 and 1769, was based on a course of lectures he presented at Oxford. His four-volume "Commentaries on the Laws of England" has made Sir William Blackstone the best known of English and American writers on the law. For many years after his death the Commentaries served as textbooks for the teaching of law both in England and in America. Although all four volumes of the Commentaries appeared in the 1760s, they remain one of the best general histories of English law.

Our rich legal heritage of freedom under the law continues to be challenged by many world systems of oppression and tyranny. Zamfara, the northern state in Nigeria imposed Sharia or Islamic law which violated their constitution. Zamfara's then governor, Ahmed Sani, said he would replicate the Sharia code used in Saudi Arabia, including punishments, such as amputation for thieves and flogging for drinking alcohol. He said, "We are going to create a very good society in which there is no theft or robbery, and government officials do not steal government money." Boys and girls are now being educated in single-sex schools, alcohol sales have been banned and cinemas closed. Will everyone be treated equal under Islamic law? Governor Sani said Sharia or Islamic law will be applied only to Muslims. "Nothing will change for Christians. They have nothing to fear." He said. Has inequality under Islamic law resulted in freedom and equality for all people of Zamfara, or in increased hatred and persecution of non-Muslims?

Liberty and freedom for every person in America came from our Christian roots. (John 8:36) "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." (2 Cor. 3:17) "Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." (John 8:32) "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (Psa. 119:45) "And I will walk at liberty: for I seek thy precepts." If Americans continue to reject and replace their Christian roots with modern multiculturalism, we will lose our "unalienable rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." "In God we Trust" and "One nation under God" will gradually be replaced with that form of tyranny which enslaved our forefathers. Pastor "B"

City council member resigns to address family business

be absent, therefore, after long hours of debating with myself, I feel that it is in the best interest of all if I submit my resignation effective immediately," Maybury continued.

"When I was elected, I ran wanting to do what was in the best interest of my fellow residents and with my absence, it can put the rest of you in a situation where your hands are tied, which is not in the best interest of the city. I wish I could fulfill my duties, but with so many unforeseen variables in my life at this time, I feel that this is the best possible answer for all," Maybury said.

"If I am able to return, I would still like to offer my assistance to do what I can to help. It has truly been a learning experience for me and it was a pleasure working with all of you," Maybury concluded.

Thayer was arrested on a 24-count misdemeanor on Thursday, February 11, 2010.

Thayer's arrest comes after a two-month investigation by the Crawford County Sheriff's Office for several alleged violations of the Social Security Number Privacy Act law. Each of the charges carries up to 93 days in jail and/or $1,000 fine, if convicted.

According to the state's Social Security Privacy Act, a violation of the act occurs when someone "knowingly and intentionally" releases more than four sequential numbers from a person's Social Security number to another

The charges Thayer faces stem from a background check completed on Grayling City Council candidates, who took office in November.

Maybury, who ran unopposed to fill an unexpired term on the city council, did not take the oath of office at the meeting where other city council candidates were sworn in. It was determined that she had not paid the city's income tax for four years while she has lived in the city. Maybury and her family have lived in the city almost six years.

As steps were taken to address the issue, Maybury was given tax forms and agreed to a payment plan for the back taxes. She took the oath of office on Nov. 12.

Thayer said Michigan Department of Treasury printouts containing Social Security numbers of 24 other people who failed to pay the income tax were inadvertently given to Maybury with the tax forms.

Since Maybury has worked in the medical field for several years, she said she knew it is critical to keep Social Security numbers, addressees and names confidential from the public. She was advised to consult an attorney after receiving the forms from Thayer.

Grayling attorney Dave Sabin said he was directed by Maybury to give the information to the Crawford County Sheriff's Office.

"It was David Thayer's doings that pushed me to seek out an attorney," Maybury said. "I did what I needed to do and I needed to know the law."

Although Maybury declined to discuss the specifics of Thayer's court case, she reiterated that the current state of affairs at city hall had nothing to do with her move or resignation.

"I honestly did need to take care of my family," said Maybury, who added that her family has not "emptied out" their home in the city. "There is no hidden agenda. He had nothing to do with my move. It was for my family."

Maybury said she would return to Grayling, if needed, to take part in the prosecution of Thayer's case.

Maybury said she would like to see more businesses drawn into Grayling to fill the empty downtown storefronts. She said creating an artisan village in conjunction with Kirtland Community College would help achieve those goals.

"I would like to see Kirtland Community College come to downtown Grayling," Maybury said. "I think that's a good start."

Grayling Mayor Karl Schreiner said the council and city officials were aware Maybury might resign from the council.

"We knew it was a possibility, but until we received something formal, you can't deal with possibilities," said.

Schreiner said the council would address how it will fill Maybury's seat at its next meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. on Monday, March 29.

"We will deal with this as a team - it's not just one person," he said.

The city council placed Thayer on administrative leave on Feb. 22 while his court case is pending.

All county roads opened for ORV travel year-round after public notice

 with the firearm deer season and the snowmobile season.

Diane Tomlinson, the owner of the Woodland Motor Lodge, said she missed out on ORV rental business when she could rent machines to hunters last fall.

Norman Kenyon, a board member for the Happi-Trials ATV Club based in Frederic, said gas stations, restaurants and businesses could have benefited from ORV business because of the earlier winter thaw.

"A lot of people that ride snowmobiles also ATV," Kenyon said. "I would think it would have been just as good having ATV riders spending money in the county. This past week, it would have been nice to go for a ride, but with my snowmobile it's hard to ride on the dirt."

County commissioners discussed placing a 60-day moratorium on opening the roads to give the township and city officials time to submit changes requested for opened and closed roads. All roads previously requested closed by the townships will remain closed. Roads previously closed by the road commission will be opened, but the road commission board holds the right to close roads if problems with ORVs occur.

County commissioners wanted to ensure that township officials were aware of the intent of the road commission.

Gaye Pizzi, a Crawford County Equalization Department employee, has developed the map of opened and closed roads for the county. Pizzi said Grayling Charter Township, Beaver Creek Township and Frederic Township requested that all roads in their jurisdictions be opened to ORV travel. Maple Forrest Township requested a few roads opened to ORV travel. South Branch Township requested road closures to avoid ORVs traveling near the Mason Tract and in Kirtland's Warbler habitat. Lovells Township had a designated ORV trail network within the township's boundaries identified last year. The changes requested by the townships will be addressed with the amended ORV ordinance.

The Grayling City Council will consider its ordinance to designate roads where ORVs can travel at its next meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. on Monday, March 29. Under the proposed ordinance, city officials will prohibit ORVs from traveling on Michigan Avenue, to avoid conflicts with AuSable Primary School and Grayling Elementary School students. City officials will also restrict ORVs from traveling on Lawndale Street, where the Grayling Senior Center and apartments rented by the Grayling Housing Commission are located. The city ordinance will include a curfew and speed limit.

John Chad, a member of the Happi-Trials ATV Club, said it is imperative that the DNR & E open up a snowmobile trail located between M-93 and Roberts Road to ORV travel. Chad said the change would allow ORVs to travel into Grayling, travel east and west of I-75 and travel north and south of the city.

"I think the direction is good to open up everything," Chad said.

Dave Stephenson, chairman of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners, said he wanted to avoid giving the county a black eye from ORVs riders if all changes were not in hand before the ordinance was amended.

"We're basically trying to get the townships to move one way or another," Stephenson said. "I don't want get bad name for the county for people that want to come here."

County commissioners, however, said townships could develop their own ordinances to open and close roads so they would no longer have to address the ORV issue.

"We can make a change here and there and they can trump us anyway," Stephenson said.

Crawford County Sheriff Kirk A. Wakefield told the county board that there have been some problems with ORVs traveling on snowmobile trails between Four Mile Road and Five Mile Road in Beaver Creek Township. In addition, Wakefield said there have been issues with ORVs on private roads in the county. Wakefield said the deputies can enforce helmet law and drunk driving violations on private roads, but are otherwise limited until things start getting out of hand.

"As far as people doing doughnuts on a private road, I'm sorry, but I just can't write a ticket for that," he said. "Until it becomes a public peace issue and you've got a bunch of neighbors that want to hurt somebody - and that happens - I can't do much. There's not too much I haven't seen."

Wakefield stressed that maps, signage and education are crucial as the county and ATV/ORV clubs move forward.

"It's imperative - to make this work - to have proper maps and to get them in the proper people's hands," Wakefield said.

Over 60 Pinewood Derby cars were raced, with 28 trophies being presented to the participating Cub Scouts. Scheer Motors, Feeny Ford Mercury of Grayling and Hart Lincoln Ford Mercury donated trophies for the Pinewood Derby. The overall winner was T. J. Hart, with a blistering speed of over 200 mph. CASD students exceed averages on MEAP tests

The Crawford AuSable third through ninth grade students took their Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) tests last October and recently were informed they met or exceeded the area and state averages on 15 of 16 assessments.

These results mark the fifth straight year of significant improvement in student achievement at Crawford AuSable Schools. These results are evidence of the district's strategic plan of achieving "Educational Excellence."

Every fall, students in the State of Michigan are tested in math and reading in grades three through eight, in science in fifth and eighth grades and social studies in the sixth and ninth grades. The reading and math scores are reported to the federal government under No Child Left Behind guidelines to determine Adequate Yearly Progress and also produce a school grade issued by the State of Michigan under EdYes!

This past year, all of our MEAP schools, the AuSable Primary School, the Grayling Elementary School and the Grayling Middle School earned an

"A" Grade through EdYes! Grayling High School students take the ACT exam instead of the MEAP test. Based upon this, only the Grayling High School and 74 other Michigan high schools were recognized by U.S. News and World Report as being one of America's Best High Schools in 2010.

On average, 92 percent of our students are proficient in mathematics and 89 percent of our students are proficient in reading.

"I am proud of the hard work of our students and staff and am thrilled with their success," said Crawford AuSable School District Superintendent Joe Powers.

The Crawford AuSable teachers are now in the process of analyzing the MEAP results to determine areas of strength and weakness so the growth may continue.

The Crawford AuSable School District Board of Education and administration congratulated the students, teachers and parents since they have been working together as a team to reach this level of success and are dedicated to continued growth as they watch the students reach their mission - "Growing to Greatness."

Spring sports teams greeted by good weather

Squads begin practicing on Monday, March 15

by Caleb Casey
Senior Staff Writer

The spring sports season is almost here, and the recent warm weather has allowed Grayling High School's teams to get outside right away for practices.

"We've gotten super lucky with the weather," said GHS Athletic Director Tim Sanchez. "The weather has really worked out in our favor."

Keri Brock, who's in her sixth season as head coach of the GHS varsity softball squad, was pleased to be outside on March 17 – the third day of official practices.

"It's crazy," Coach Brock said. "It's great. Usually we're not outside until the first scrimmage. This hasn't happened since I've been here."

Three teams – varsity baseball, varsity softball, and girls soccer – have games scheduled for the week spring break begins, and unlike in years past, when those pre-spring break games were usually canceled due to poor weather, early indications this year suggest that those games will be played.

"We're pretty confident we'll be able to get those in," Sanchez said.

GHS has most of its spring sports coaches back from last season, but there will be a few new faces.

Brock and John Schneider are back as coaches of the varsity softball and varsity baseball teams, respectively.

"Both of them are pretty excited. They should have some pretty good teams," Sanchez said.

Sarah Allen returns for a second season as coach of the JV softball squad. Brent Krabill, a teacher at Grayling Middle School, is the new JV baseball coach.

The varsity baseball and softball teams are scheduled to play their season openers at Carson City on Wednesday, March 31, at 4 p.m. Spring break runs from April 2 through April 12. The two varsity squads will host Roscommon on Tuesday, April 13, at 4:30 p.m. The teams also have home doubleheaders slated for Friday, April 16, vs. Harbor Springs, which would be Grayling's first league matches of the year.

The JV baseball and softball squads will start their 2010 seasons with doubleheaders at Roscommon on April 13 at 4 p.m.

The track program will feature one returning coach – Tim Gariglio (girls) – and one new coach – Dan Helms (boys).

"They should have decent teams. They have some good athletes coming back," Sanchez said.

The track program's first scheduled meet of the year is the East Jordan Jamboree on Monday, April 19. The Vikings will host the Grayling Invitational on Saturday, April 24.

Craig Cobb returns as coach of the GHS varsity girls soccer squad.

"They're coming off their best season in a long time," Sanchez said. "They're looking to build off that success."

Sierra Williamson plays in a singles match during last Thursday's tennis practice.

The soccer team – one of the three GHS squads scheduled to play a game before spring break – will host Gaylord at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, March 31. After spring break, the Vikings will play two league games – at Boyne City and at Charlevoix – on April 13 and 15.

Dan DesEnfants is the new coach of the boys golf team.

The squad "should have a ton of members," Sanchez said. "Early indications are we should have good numbers for all of our spring sports."

The golf team will open its season with a meet vs. Houghton Lake on April 15. The Vikings will host the Grayling Invitational on Thursday, April 22, at 9 a.m. at the Grayling Country Club.

The girls tennis program has been in a state of flux for the past few seasons, but it appears to be in good shape for this spring. A few years ago, when the Michigan High School Athletic Association realigned some its sports seasons due to a court ruling in a gender equity lawsuit, girls tennis and boys tennis swapped seasons. GHS later eliminated girls tennis, but encouraged its female tennis players to play on the boys' team in the fall. In the fall of 2009, the school did not have enough boys for a team, but had approximately nine girls. Boys tennis, what would have been a coed team, was canceled this past fall, but the school opted to try for girls tennis in the spring if enough athletes participate.

"We have not had (girls tennis) for a couple years. We're trying to bring it back if we have enough for a full team. There's been a lot of interest," Sanchez said.

Scott Baker, coach of the squad, said on March 18 that he had 16 players. Twelve are needed for a full team – eight for doubles and four for singles.

The tennis team will play at Boyne City on Tuesday, April 20.

Basketball

Colin Hamlin, senior point guard for this year's

Grayling High School varsity boys basketball team, was one of 20 players to be selected for the Michigan High School Athletic Association and Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan three-point shoot-out, an event that will be held at Jenison Fieldhouse in East Lansing. The shoot-out is slated to begin at 2 p.m. on Saturday, March 27.

Hamlin shot 46 percent (43 for 94) from three-point range during the 2009-2010 season.

If Hamlin shoots his way into the MHSAA Three-Point Challenge Finals, he will shoot at halftime of the Class A boys state championship game (approximately 5 p.m.). The game will be aired on Fox Sports' and also on www.mhsaatv.com.

Soccer team looks to improve on last year's progress

Vikings to open season with home game on March 31

by Caleb Casey
Senior Staff Writer

Grayling High School's varsity girls soccer squad, a team that had its most successful season in recent years during the 2009 spring campaign, is looking to build on last year's progress with a group that includes – according to Coach Craig Cobb – “a good mix of experience and about five that are new to the varsity.”

The team, as of last week, had 20 players overall (three freshmen, five sophomores, 11 juniors, and one senior).

With the decent weather last week, field conditions and temperatures allowed for outdoor practices. The soccer team started its official practices on Monday, March 15.

“We’re looking to build on the success we had last year,” Coach Cobb said. “We had eight wins, which was the most for girls soccer in school history. This season the focus is to continue on with the success we’ve had by focusing in practice and developing our understanding of the game.”

The Vikings won six regular season games last year. They won two playoff games in the district tournament.

Coach Cobb said his 2010 team’s “biggest strength is our speed on offense. We have some very fast and aggressive forwards. The girls have a great attitude and they work very hard.”

“Last season we had a lot of success with chip and chase. We’d like to build off that to have more control, look for the open person more than counting on the speed of our strikers,” Coach Cobb said.

“(Assistant Coach) Larry Moore is putting in a lot of time with our keepers,” Coach Cobb said. “We’re looking to have strong goalkeepers that can shut out the other team.”

Coach Cobb said his team’s primary goals this year are “to outdo what we did last season” as far as total wins, and to “increase our production of goals.”

The Vikings will open their 2010 season with a home game vs. Gaylord on Emily Wingard slides toward a stationary ball during a goalkeeper drill on Friday.

Wednesday, March 31, at 5 p.m. Spring break runs from April 2 through April 12.

The team will resume its game schedule with a league match at Boyne City on April 13. The Vikings play a second league game on April 15 at Charlevoix.

“We play in a really tough conference so I’m cautiously optimistic,” Coach Cobb said about his team’s possible placement in the Lake Michigan Conference this year.
